Chamber Foundation Launches Business News Network

Phoenix (June 4) – The Arizona Chamber Foundation is proud to launch its newest project, Chamber Business News, a digital media platform that will focus on the issues driving Arizona’s economy and that are important to the business community.

Led by Executive Director Lorna Romero, CBN delivers insider information, engages newsmakers, and addresses statewide issues that drive Arizona toward a brighter and more prosperous future.

“At CBN, ‘Business is our Beat’ and we are dedicated to providing bottom-line news from across the state,” said Romero. “Our dynamic team will give readers insider information with a distinct voice. More importantly, CBN will tell the stories that matter to Arizona’s job creators, innovators, and entrepreneurs.”

The all new digital media platform delivers readers daily reporting, commentary and an aggregation of statewide and national news important to Arizona’s business community.

“The Arizona Chamber Foundation’s newest project will focus on issues important to the business community and the state’s’ economy,” Chamber Foundation Chairman Jessica Pacheco said.

CBN can be found at ChamberBusinessNews.com, on Twitter @ChamberBizNews and on Facebook at Chamber Business News. Readers can also subscribe to our daily e-newsletter, Dry Heat.

The team is staffed by Romero, Morgan Carr as the Deputy Director, Ann Seiden as the Contributing Editor, and Garrick Taylor as the Senior Vice President of Communications for the news network. Former Arizona Republic President and Publisher, Mi-Ai Parrish serves as CBN’s strategic consultant.
